Things That Go Bump in the Night: Stories & Folklore

Tuesday, October 17th, 6:00-7:00pm

Looking for some pre-Halloween thrills and chills? Join cultural anthropologist Dr. Fritz Lampe as he shares stories and folklore of a frightening nature from around the world.

Dr. Lampe is an applied cultural anthropologist teaching in the Department of Anthropology at Northern Arizona University, focusing on the intersections of religion, community development, and faith-based NGOs. Dr. Lampe teaches graduate and undergraduate seminars on applied anthropology and anthropological theory, folklore, symbol, myth, and ritual, focusing on peoples of Africa, Melanesia, and Alaska.
